High School Pathways

When you apply to high school in New York City, you have a wide range of choices. We offer more than 700 programs at over 400 high schools.

There are three paths to high school admissions, and you can take all three.

- High School Application. This process is how you apply to most high school programs. During the application period, apply to 12 options with your high school application. You must submit your application online. Some programs have additional requirements, such as an audition or assessment, and some programs make offers based on applicants' academic records.
- Specialized High Schools Admissions Test (SHSAT). Interested students can also apply to the eight testing Specialized High Schools . At schools.nyc.gov/SHS, learn how to participate and find SHSAT practice tests and other test preparatory materials.
- LaGuardia High School Application. Interested students can also apply to any/all of LaGuardia's six arts programs by submitting a LaGuardia application and auditioning.

Admissions Methods

Please take a moment to read through these requirements and scan the QR codes for more information.

Screened

Student's best grade in four subjects—

- English
- Math
- Social Studies
- Science

from 7th grade final grades and/or 8th grade marking period grades available by the application deadline.

These could be grades from two different school years to capture the highest grade for each subject. No state test scores or attendance records will be used in admissions this year.

Some schools may still require additional materials. Check MySchools for more information.

Ed Opt.

Designed to serve students at a range of academic levels. Based on their four core course grades, an applicant's records are categorized as:

- High
- Middle
- Low

One-third of offers are made to applicants from each category.

Zoned

Students who live in the school's zone have a guarantee or priority to attend.

Offers are made to applicants who live in the school's zone.

You do not have to list it first to keep your priority.

Open

Offers are made to students in order by their priority groups and randomly assigned numbers.

High School Programs

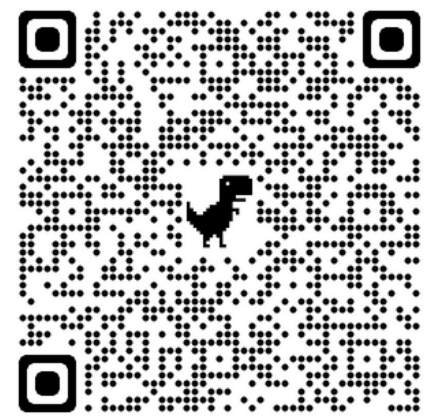

Schools offer programs in the following 22 interest areas. All programs include courses across a wide range of subjects.

Programs listed as "humanities & interdisciplinary" or "zoned" do not emphasize a particular interest area:

- Engineering
- Environmental science

Audition Schools & Programs

- The sole selection criteria for admission to all audition programs (except those at LaGuardia High School) is the audition itself.
 - LaGuardia High School has its own admissions process and will continue to use students' academic records as well as their auditions to make offers to its programs.
- The 25 DOE high schools that offer audition programs all use the same common audition components across programs in the same arts discipline (such as visual art or dance).
 - This means that if you want to apply to, say, three dance programs, you would only need to submit one dance audition.

For all audition programs, learn how to audition this year on the DOE Auditions page.

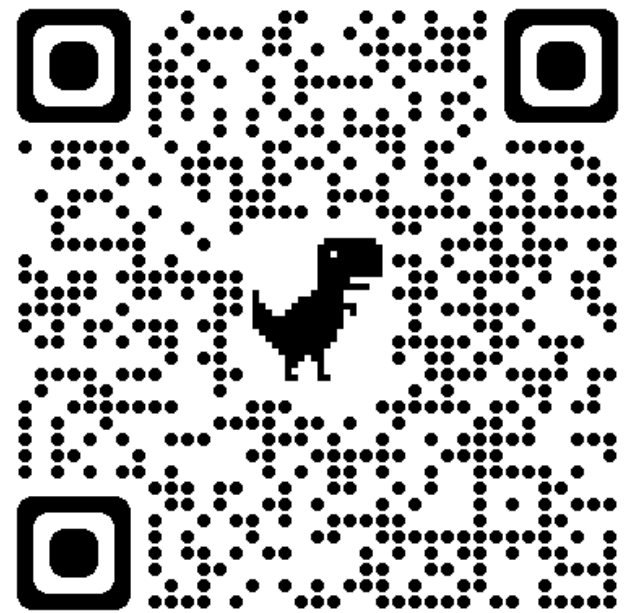

Audition Information

- Applicants can now submit audition materials through the Additional Materials section of your MySchools account—learn how in this video tutorial:
